SINHG Evening Program Draws Record Crowd

On Thursday, January 14th, famous historian, Dr. Walter Edgar entertained a throng of over 250 Seabrookers with a fascinating review of South Carolina’s critical role in the American Revolutionary War. Dr. Edgar is the host of the popular “Walter Edgar’s Journal” on ETV Radio. Though not a “native son,” he has dedicated most of his life to the study of the state’s rich and complex history. Along the way, Edgar, has written or edited several books on South Carolina and has taught and lectured on the state’s intriguing past. His publications include The South Carolina Encyclopedia, South Carolina: A History and Partisans and Redcoats: The Southern Conflict that Turned the Tide of the American Revolution and South Carolina in the Modern Age.

Many of the details Edgar related included tales of Southern bravery one rarely learns through textbooks. A significant contrast to “The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere” involved the exploits of an 80 year old southern woman who, while washing clothes at the river, overheard Loyalist wives discussing an upcoming British raid. Stealing a horse and galloping bareback through enemy lines to the site of the proposed raid, she reported what she heard, and saved the day for our American troops. After many losses for the Patriots, the tide turned in the victories at King’s Mountain (1780) and Cowpens (1781) leading to the Continental army pushing the British forces out of the Carolinas. In December 1782, the last occupying troops left Charleston. When the final count was made, more South Carolinians had been killed or wounded in battle than from any other Southern state. The event was held at the Island House to accommodate the large crowd which exceeded expectations. SINHG President, Frank Cermak, said “We were very pleased with the large turnout. An important part of SINHG’s mission is to disseminate natural and cultural history information about Seabrook Island, Charleston and South Carolina to our members through the Evening Program lecture series. Special thanks are due to all the SINHG volunteers and to the Club for making this event successful.”

More information about the Seabrook Island Natural History Group programs and activities may be found by visiting SINHG’s website at sinhg.org.
CAP’N SAM EDISTO

Dear Cap’n Sam,

Since the most incredible week on the Edisto was last week, and our cups ran over with gratitude, we hope your Edisto experience was as rewarding.

We note that you and everyone else, as well as our Seabrook Island friends, went out of your way to help make this a special and memorable Christmas for the children of Seabrook Island. We are excited to see what you will be doing this year. Your willingness to serve and your spirit of giving are a gift to all.

Thank you for donating to our cause. It means a lot that you did.

With our love and warm wishes to you and everyone else on the island, we wish you a happy and healthy new year.

Sincerely,
Faye Allbritton

DAYTONA BEACH, FLORIDA—The Seabrook Island Fire Department was among the first to arrive on the island on Saturday night as Tropical Storm Isaac continued to make its way up the east coast. The Seabrook Island Fire Department responded to several calls for assistance, including one from a resident who had been trapped in their home when the roof fell in.

The Seabrook Island Fire Department is working closely with local authorities to ensure that all residents are safe and their needs are met.

Addison, winter, longer evenings and cooler temperatures calls for less outdoor activity. The diet may be different as well, with less produce being available, and the human body may be more easily impacted by the cold. These factors can be used in the medical setting to help guide diagnosis and treatment. For example, a patient may be more likely to experience pain when wearing heavy clothing. For many whose cancer has metastasized, the pain is described as sharp, burning and may be worse at night. In cases where the cancer has not yet metastasized, the pain is described as more of a dull ache. For both scenarios, additional pain management techniques such as heat therapy, massage therapy, and acupuncture may be recommended by the treating physician.

Conclusion

In conclusion, there are several factors that can impact the survival rates of those with pancreatic cancer. Some of these factors include age, gender, family history, obesity, and smoking status. While there is already a lot of research being done on these factors, there is still much to learn about how they affect survival rates.

References

Additional notes:

- Additional factors that impact survival rates include the stage of the cancer at diagnosis, the location of the tumor, the type of treatment, and the patient’s overall health.
- The American Cancer Society estimates that about 20% of those diagnosed with pancreatic cancer will be alive five years after diagnosis.
- Survival rates for pancreatic cancer have improved in recent years, but there is still a lot of work to be done to improve outcomes for those with this disease.

Seabrook Island Birders (SIB) Inaugural Meeting Attended By 100 Residents

Seabrook Island Birders (SIB) held its inaugural meeting on January 20th at the Lake House on Seabrook Island. The meeting was attended by just over 100 Seabrook Island residents, with many more who could not attend due to the inclement weather.

Guest speaker, Christian W. Wydall, led the meeting for new members and non-members alike.

Seabrook Island Birders (SIB) is a new organization that emerged from the Seabrook Island Community Birding Project and the island-wide study of Monarch Butterflies overwintering in Mexico.

On Saturday evening, January 23rd, Seabrook Island Birders and Friendship Peace will host the world premiere reading of Mary Glickman’s “The First Thanksgiving,” a new novel, at the Seabrook Island Lake House. The event is free and open to the public.

The book is a novel about the first Thanksgiving, which occurred in 1621, and is the story of how a group of settlers came together to give thanks for the bountiful harvest.

The white-tailed deer is the most predominant component in the wildlife community on Seabrook Island and clearly the animal that most people like to see. However, many property owners in the community are aware that the deer herd has been growing, and with the increase in number comes growth of the deer population. To control the fast growing deer population, the Deer Management and Feeding Task Force (DMTF) was formed.

On our island where deer have had a free reign for so many years, there are some deer that are becoming a threat to our local community on Seabrook Island and the maintaining of adequate and proper habitats is extremely important.

Deer that are on the island are not free roaming. The Deer Management and Feeding Task Force has been helping to control the deer population through several methods. One of the new methods that is being used is Fall Spotlight counts of the deer herd to determine so that our wildlife can be observed.

The complete Annual Deer Research Report for 2011 and the DMTF Deer Management Program document are available on the SIOA website (sioa.org).▲

The new phone, internet and TV is holding around 80 degrees.

Week in February. The water temperature is expected to take 5-6 weeks to increase. We are conditioning the boiler for the fitness pool. We have ordered a replacement washdown valve for the Crab Dock bulkhead. From the maintenance facility for painting. We will also be removing broken window plaques as needed. The lattice at many buildings is holding brown and white planks. In response, Priority One proposed that we extend our contract for 5 years without cost increase, and they will deliver monthly brown and white planks. We also plan to provide education pieces to emphasize that the maintenance facility is for cleaning purposes. It’s important to keep the water clean and white planks - and also very important to be on enforcement purposes.
